Summary

**Follow me for artificial intelligence news, job openings, and updates!****

Deep background in artificial intelligence, human-computer interaction, technology, cognitive science, analytics, product and user experience, marketing, and consumer insights.

Allie Miller is the US Head of AI Business Development for Startups and Venture Capital at Amazon (AWS), advancing the greatest AI companies in the world.

Previously, Allie was the youngest-ever woman to build an artificial intelligence product at IBM—spearheading large-scale product development across computer vision, conversation, data, and regulation.

Outside of work, Allie is changing the game of AI. Allie has spoken about AI and field diversity around the world, addressed the European Commission, drafted foreign AI strategies, and created eight guidebooks to educate businesses on how to build successful AI projects.

Allie was named by Forbes and AI Summit as 2019's "AI Innovator of the Year", LinkedIn Top Voice for Technology 2019, Award Magazine's Top 50 Women in Tech, ReadWrite's Top 20 AI Speakers in the World, MKAI's Top 20 AI Mavericks, and Neptune's Top 20 AI Influencers. Allie is also the Founder of The AI Pipeline to build stronger diversity in ML, a national ambassador for the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS), an ambassador for the 10,000-person organization Advancing Women in Product, and has won the Grand Prize in three national innovation competitions.

Allie is driven, ambitious, and quick-witted. Allie holds a double-major MBA from The Wharton School, a certificate and award from Stanford Graduate School of Business, and a BA in Cognitive Science (coding a three-year ML study and studying Computer Science, Linguistics, Psychology) from Dartmouth College.
